

With the u-OS open operating system + Data Hub, users can rely on seamless data exchange between applications and interact with system I/O modules, without the need for complex programming.

